

K Song

OK

V1

What is the right way to spell OK? Which OK should I use?

Is OK spelled OK? Is O-K-A-Y OK?

Teachers and books spell it different ways; I think they do it just to confuse.

Is OK spelled OK? Is O-K-A-Y OK?

Either way's OK.

V2

Why not just have one way? Why do we need two?

Is OK spelled OK? Is O-K-A-Y OK?

It makes one more difference between me and you.

Is OK spelled OK? Is O-K-A-Y OK?

Either way's OK.

Chorus:

Whenever I need to write OK,

I don't want to have to guess

So now whenever I write OK,

I'm going to just write yes.

V3

I've decided to spell it O and K; I call it OK-light.

Is OK spelled OK? Is O-K-A-Y OK?

But now I'm wondering what is right? Is it all right or alright,

Is OK spelled OK? Is O-K-A-Y OK?

Either way's all right!

